Happy New Year 2013

CGI Learning Center wishes you the very best for all the year, and hope 2013 brings joyous and great reading, studying, researching that make learning at CGI the best experience for everyone.

And, we would like to bring to your attention that for the past 6 months CGI Learning Center acquired several new books which have not yet been checked out by any students, we wondered why? But, books are still waiting. Some books are available online for students to read easily. Please find out the new books arrival from CGI Learning Center Facebook, and webpage.

CGI Learning Center recommends.

Encyclopedia Britannica Online has been brought to CGI and CRI since last year, and we expect knowledge seekers from both institutions will enjoy looking up enormous amount of educational resources on various disciplines. It is very handy that meanings of interesting words and technical terms can be searched from online dictionary "Merriam –Webster Dictionary" that accompanied with Britannica. Please take a look at the service and you will be hooked up with e-articles, e-books and festinating videos.

Library Orientation and Workshops

CGI Learning Center organized the first library orientation for new students, which introduced online resources including Online Reference Databases and book searching and borrowing.

In 2013, Online Reference Databases Workshops are scheduled to take place in February. Students and faculty members who participate in the workshops will experience online searching to find needed articles for their research projects. Also, we will inform everyone how to follow the articles that may not be available from the databases, for CGI Learning Center provides the good collections of printed journals with cooperation from CRI Library. So, students and faculties do not need to worry about document delivery problems. In addition to those topics, we will help you to work on bibliographic citation technique like using Endnote Web from Web of Knowledge and other databases.
