Students and Staff Meeting

In late afternoon of May 20th, 2015

CGI Learning Center on 12th Floor opened a space to welcome students and staff of CGI's to meet, talk and enjoy snacks and have fun singing karaoke. This is quite unusual for CGI people to spare time from hard work, studying, teaching, researching to relax, to be away for a few hours from labs to laugh and talk with friends and faculty about anything, really.

CGI Archives – Knowledge Sharing
February 2015

A change in management of organization's administrational records throughout the world, from papers to digital files, has also brought new way to rethink our organization's archives. The National Archives is by law a formal repository of government records; today needs to share responsibility to the owners of the records themselves, to save cost, manpower and space. CGI administrators recognize the importance of records in terms of organizational or business value and archival or social value. Therefore, CGI organized a special lecture on "An overview of Archival Management for Administrators and Practitioners" on February 25th 2015, by Khun Juthatip Angsusingh from the Thailand National Archives. CGI plans to work on organizational records management beginning with proposing an archival policy for printed and digital records, and to draft a general guideline and selection criteria in order to determine which records needed to keep for how long, and when records are to be discharged.
